

X-Y Scatter graph

A scatter graph is a fundamental type of graph that allows you plot one variable on the x axis against another variable on the y axis. You should use this type of graph in Excel to compare two variables. The axis should be labeled with the variable names and units in available.

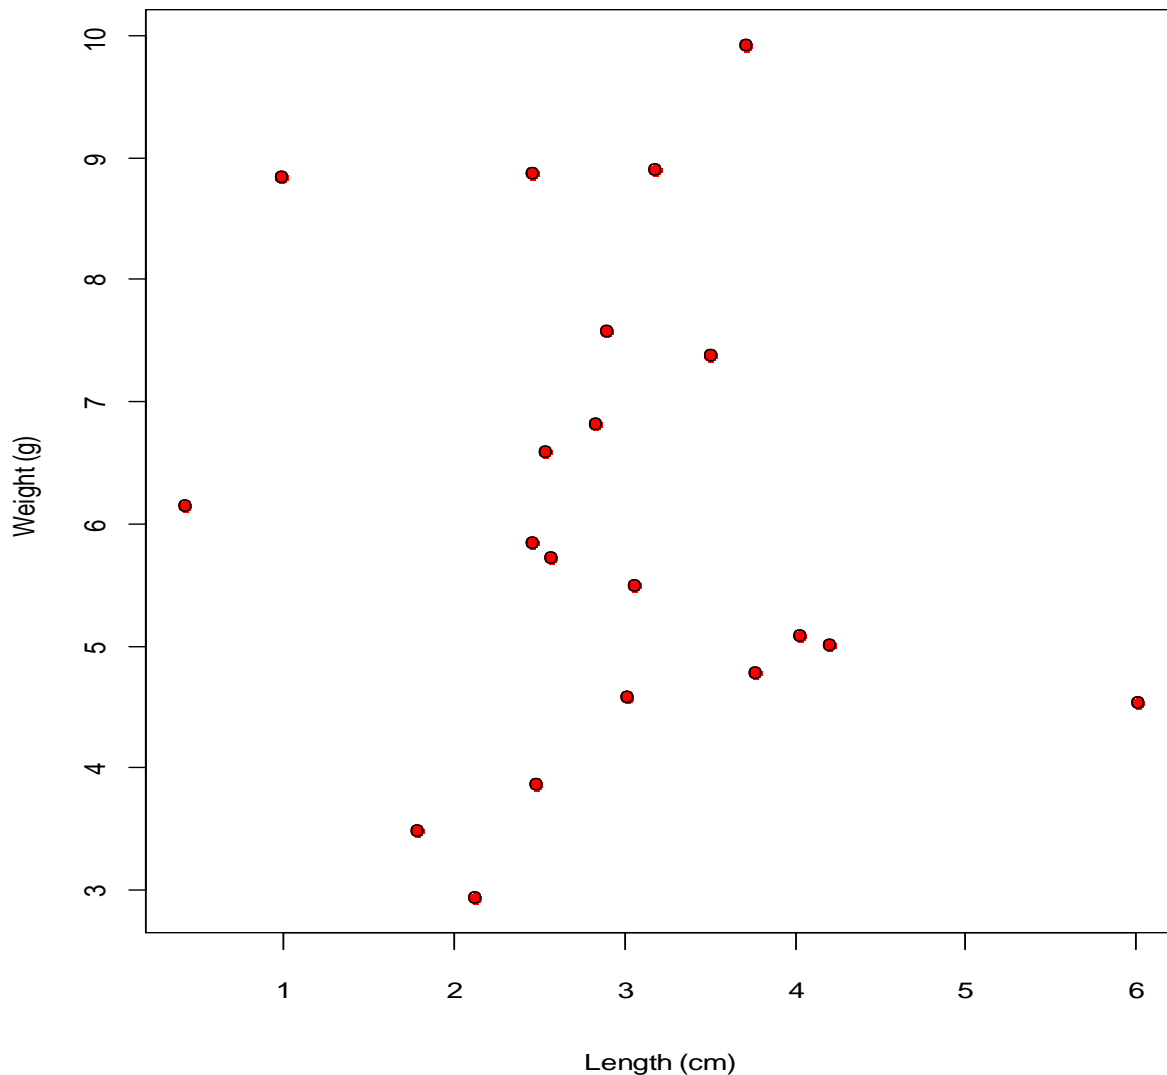

Figure 1. An example scatter graph.

